WOMAN JAILED FOR 'DESPICABLE' FRAUD

Contracted finance officer abused position to steal almost £500,000 of public money

By Lucy Purdy

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A WOMAN who "abused her position" as a finance officer to defraud Haringey Council of nearly £500,000 has been jailed for three-and-a-half years.

Ceyda Elkatme, a contracted finance officer, made payments to bank accounts belonging to seven accomplices who were sentenced alongside her at Southwark Crown Court last Thursday.

The court heard that Elkatme made 66 fraudulent payments totalling more than £466,000 to her accomplices between June 2010 and October 2012.

An internal audit and investigation by the council revealed the suspect payments made by Elkatme, 35, of Sterling Avenue, Waltham Cross, who worked in the council's adult services payments team. She pleaded guilty to money laundering.

Police were contacted by the council in December 2012 and arrested Elkatme, who was by then no longer working for the council, in July 2013.

Six others were arrested on the same day and a further arrest was made the following month.

Tijen Kacakoglu, 35, of Kimberley Road, Edmonton, was jailed for 12 months and Nicos Kolas, 34, of Albany Park Avenue, Enfield Highway, received an eight-month prison sentence, suspended for two years. They both pleaded guilty to money laundering.

Ceyda's husband, 34-year-old Jihad Elkatme, of Sterling Avenue, Waltham Cross, who had pleaded guilty to money laundering, was sentenced to 21 months in jail.

Ajda Saykin-Bezci, 36, from

Jailed: Ceyda Elkatme

Thornton Heath, south London, also pleaded guilty to money laundering and was sentenced to 12 months in prison, suspended for two years.

Three others were found guilty on August 10 of money laundering following a five-day trial at Southwark Crown Court. Iqbal Bablu, 27, of Landseer Road, Enfield, and Mazar Khan, 35, formerly of Millicent Grove, Palmers Green, received a 12-month prison sentence suspended for two years and Abid Fostok, 33, of Streamside Close, Edmonton, was jailed for ten months.

Haringey borough police's Superintendent Amanda Dellar said: "This was a despicable crime where Elkatme abused her position as a finance officer to defraud Haringey Council out of well over £450,000 of what was effectively public money."

She said that Elkatme had worked with her husband and other accomplices "to launder hundreds of thousands of pounds between them - money which should have been paid to people providing essential care for services to vulnerable adults in the borough".

Two men jailed for supplying cocaine

TWO men who supplied a brothel with cocaine to sell to its customers have been handed sentences totalling 15 years.

Naim Berisha, 38, of Southgate, north London, and Ryan Bojang, 26, from Palmers Green, north London, were sentenced at Wood Green Crown Court last week.

Berisha was jailed for eight years after being convicted of supplying 1kg of cocaine and two years for possessing 25 wraps of cocaine with intent to supply. Bojang admitted possessing cocaine with intent to supply and was jailed for five years and four months.

Angela Cadar, 27, of Cheshire Road, Wood Green, was jailed for 11 months after pleading guilty to managing a brothel.

Killing: duo arrested

DETECTIVES investigating the killing of teenager Gary Scott in a Finsbury Park street have arrested two men.

The duo, aged 30 and 27, are in custody at a police station in south-west London.

Police found 17-year-old Mr Scott, from Tottenham, suffering from stab wounds in Marquis Road at about 11pm on Tuesday evening last week and he died at a central London hospital.

Crash: woman hurt

A WOMAN suffered serious injuries when she was involved in an accident with an articulated lorry in Tottenham last Monday.

The 50-year-old pedestrian was near the St Loy's Road bus stop, in High Road, when the accident happened just after 9.30am. She was taken to a hospital in east London and remains in a critical but stable condition.

The driver stopped at the scene and is helping police with their inquiries. No arrests have been made so far.

High times for Sharon as she leaps in memory of stillborn son

A WOMAN who gave birth to a still-born son in the summer leapt to earth in a skydive to mark the day he was due to be born.

Sharon Davies, 33, of Sydney Road, Muswell Hill, was full of excitement when she attended her 20-week scan in July, expecting to hear that her pregnancy was progressing fine.

But the monitor showed there was no heartbeat. Her baby had not survived.

A few days later, she went to Barnet Hospital, where, after a three-day wait, she gave birth.

"It was very emotional," she said. "I spent some time alone with him before he was taken away and decided to name him Jesse."

"I decided that on the day he would have been born, instead of sitting around and being upset, I would mark it by doing something positive."

Sharon was challenged by her aunt Patricia to take on a skydive and took the plunge with the North London Skydiving Centre, leaping from a plane at 12,000 feet in aid of stillborn and neonatal death charity Sands.

"Just as I was about the step off the plane, I wasn't sure I could do it," she said, "but once I was in the air, it was the most wonderful feeling."

Sharon, who has four children aged between nine and 19 months, has already collected nearly £700 for Sands. She added: "There are women all over the world who have experienced something similar."

"I had children to come home to and it must be even more traumatic for parents who don't have any. You just never expect it to happen to you."

Leap of faith: Sharon Davies with her instructor Lloyd Quenby shortly after leaping from 12,000ft and, left, safely back on terra firma

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A PLUMBER met one of the key players in the Hatton Garden burglary near his Enfield workshop a day before items taken in the multi-million-pound raid were allegedly handed over there.

A jury was shown CCTV footage of 48-year-old Hugh Doyle meeting John "Kenny" Collins, one of the ringleaders of the gang who broke into the Hatton Garden Safe Deposit company over the Easter weekend, at a parking lay-by in Chase Green, Enfield, close to Doyle's workshop, on May 18, a month after the £14million jewellery raid in central London.

In a covert police recording played to the jury on Monday, a man with an Irish accent, which was agreed to be Doyle, of Riverside Gardens, Enfield, said: "Can you tell me what you need, cos we have options."

Ten minutes later he was recorded saying: "Give me two minutes, I'll try and get rid of Dave. I'll tell him to go get a coffee or something."

Doyle is seen on CCTV footage getting out of his work van, walking up to a white Mercedes driven by Collins and then walking towards a car park at the back of the Old Wheatheaf pub, where the plumber has a workshop.

Shown in court: Police CCTV footage of Hugh Doyle and John Collins in Chase Green, Enfield, on May 18

Philip Evans, prosecuting, described how Collins, who has pleaded guilty to burglary, is then seen walking a dog.

Mr Evans told Woolwich Crown Court: "Mr Doyle comes back out."

He is then recorded walking towards

Chase Green. "Some minutes later Mr Doyle went back towards his premises," said Mr Evans.

Later Doyle is seen driving his vehicle away towards Enfield Town.

He denies a charge of concealing, converting or transferring jewellery or other stolen goods following the heist. He also denies an alternative charge of conspiracy to convert or transfer criminal property.

Earlier the jury heard 67-year-old Terry Perkins, of Heene Road, Enfield, declare on police recordings that if the gang were caught "we can hold our heads up that we had a last go".

In another recording Perkins told Danny Jones, 60, of Park Avenue, Bush Hill Park, that he wished he had a photo outside Hatton Garden to show to one of the other gang members, Brian Reader, who had left after the first day of the burglary.

Perkins said: "I wish I had a photo, Dan, showing me sat outside all on my own, right, doing what I had to, say to him, that's where you left me, Brian, look all on my own."

William Lincoln, 60, of Bethnal Green, east London, Jon Harbison, 42, from Benfleet, Essex, and Carl Wood, 58, of Elderbeck Close, Cheshunt, deny the charge of conspiracy to burgle and the laundering offence.

Perkins, Jones, Collins, 74, of Islington, north London, and Brian Reader, 76, from Dartford, Kent, have pleaded guilty to the charge of conspiracy to burgle.

The trial continues.

Taking a stand: Ladies from the Saheli Centre come together to promote White Ribbon Day

Uniting to stop violence against women

CAMPAIGNERS gathered at a community centre in Edmonton to mark White Ribbon Day to end violence against women.

The Enfield Saheli group staged their annual gathering at Community House in Fore Street on Friday "to reflect on what is being done in our community as well as nationally to end domestic violence against women and girls," said chief executive Krishna Pujara.

The event encourages men to pledge their support to the campaign.

This year the event's theme was "Let us all unite and eradicate violence against women and girls."

Enfield Saheli encouraged men to grow beards throughout November to raise money for the charity and get them shaved off on White Ribbon Day.

White Ribbon Day has been running for the past ten years and organisers say it aims to encourage men "fathers, brothers, uncles, sons, husbands – all men – to step up and be part of the solution, not part of the problem". Ms Pujara said the charity was established 25 years ago "to promote and empower women" including people fleeing domestic abuse.

It works to build up people's confidence with professional and non-judgemental support to help them.

Last year it offered support to 520 women in Enfield.

Saheli means "female friend" and the charity was set up initially as a place for Asian women to go – but works with women from all communities in Enfield.

Parents issue donor appeal for Ella-Rose

A PLEA to give a sick tot the gift of life this Christmas was made this week by the parents of a desperately ill Enfield youngster.

Two-and-a-half-year-old Ella-Rose Quigley has acute myeloid leukaemia and needs a blood stem cell transplant – but a matching donor has yet to be found.

One needs to be found within the next few weeks and the toddler's parents have launched an appeal encouraging people to register online as potential donors with the charity Delete Blood Cancer UK.

As an only child, Ella-Rose doesn't have any brothers or sisters who may have matching tissue to donate blood stem cells to her and must depend on finding a matching donor on the register.

The youngster, who lives in Gater Drive, is currently being treated in Great Ormond Street Children's Hospital.

Her mum Nicole says: "Ella-Rose has been through more in the last two months than most people will endure in a lifetime. She continues to smile, but we really need to find a donor for her. Despite her illness, she is a very happy little girl and loves nothing more than playing with her friends and dressing up."

"We are asking everyone to register online as the process is very simple. A cheek swab can save someone's life. Without a donor we might not have a chance to save Ella-Rose's life. The longer we wait, the weaker she will get."

Caroline Portlock, head of donor recruitment at Delete Blood Cancer UK, said registering online as a potential blood stem cell donor only takes a few minutes.

"It could lead to you saving Ella-Rose's life or the life of someone else in need of a blood stem cell donation for their survival," she said. "Please take the time to do it as it could be one of the most important things you ever do."

People who register online can request a cheek swab kit to enable them to carry out their own tissue test to go on the database to become a blood stem cell donor through the www.deletebloodcancer.org.uk website.

Signed, sealed, delivered

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

HIGH winds were accompanied by gales of laughter on Sunday as a historic boozer held a special ceremony to unveil its new pub sign.

The sign hanging 30 feet above the entrance of The Kings Head pub, in Market Place, Enfield Town, had been kept under wraps, but it was prematurely revealed when gusts blew the covers off it.

The strong winds also played havoc a short time later at the official unveiling by Enfield mayor Patricia Ekechi when the covers would not come away smoothly because they had become tangled.

"It was funny, but it didn't spoil what was a highly successful day of events to commemorate our new sign," said pub manager Maria Allen.

It also put right an historical inaccuracy because the former sign, which is believed to have been put up when the 300-year-old pub was rebuilt in 1899, featured the head of the wrong monarch.

The pub is named in honour of King Edward 1, who granted Enfield Market its royal charter 700 years ago, making it one of the oldest markets in the UK.

"The previous sign was old and tatty and depicted another king's head, although I couldn't tell you which one," said Maria.

The striking new sign was created by local designer Jools Barrett. To celebrate the pub held a beer festival and there was live music. It also coincided with the launch of Enfield's Christmas Market.

YULETIDE revellers enjoyed a variety of festive attractions including a mini skating rink – in the middle of a busy roundabout.

Fun-lovers had a jolly time safely separated from traffic travelling around the roundabout outside Southgate Underground station.

It marked the switching-on last Friday evening of Christmas tree lights and illuminations by Enfield and Southgate MP David Burrowes.

Pupils from St Andrew's Primary School, in Chase Road, Southgate, also lit up the proceedings by singing carols and getting shoppers and passers-by to join in.

There was also a special appearance of Disney characters Snow White and Ariel, from Frozen.

The celebrations heralded a Christmas fayre on Saturday at the roundabout featuring an ice rink, a Santa's Grotto and horse and carriage tours of the area, plus an indoor market at the Southgate private members' club near the Tube station.

The proceedings were organised by Southgate Chamber of Trade and Enfield Business and Retailers' Association.

"It was a terrific success and the atmosphere was truly festive," said Mark Leaver, town centre manager for Southgate.

"The Christmas lights and decorations attract shoppers to the area and encourage them to use local traders.

"The event coincided with Small Business Saturday, which is also aimed at promoting independent retailers and boosting the local economy," he added.

Petition calls for improved station access

By Lucy Purdy

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A PETITION to improve access at Hadley Wood station has been presented to rail chiefs, boasting more than 1,300 signatures of support.

Access to the railway station, which campaigners say provides "crucial" public transport in the area, is currently only available via two sets of stairs, each with more than 30 steps.

On Friday, representatives from the newly-formed Hadley Wood Rail User group handed a petition to Govia Thameslink Railway's local development manager Andrew Sidgwick and station manager Duncan Primrose.

The petition calls for a ramp to be reinstated on the north side platform.

Francesca Caine, chairwoman of Hadley Wood Rail User Group, said: "Hadley Wood exists because a local property developer said, 'If you build a station, I will build some houses.' So the rail line is a core part of Hadley Wood.

"Our discussions with Govia have been pragmatic, but extremely encouraging and they suggested that we arrange a petition to evidence the support for the plan.

"We have elderly people living here, mothers with buggies and people on their way abroad with luggage.

"People of all sorts of ages find the stairs problematic and if you can't get to the train then you're reliant on private transport.

"I have lived here for more than 20 years and surgery means that I can do the stairs, but not carry anything up or down them."

Those unable to access the station are forced to turn to private transport when the only bus, an infrequent shoppers' service, is not running.

A spokeswoman for Great Northern – the brand name for Govia's routes in this area – said they were "very supportive" of the group and had been in discussions for some time.

She said: "We're committed to improving accessibility at our stations and we hope to deliver improved access to the station alongside a range of other projects to improve our passengers' experience there in the next financial year.

"This is subject to funding and obtaining appropriate consents. However, discussions with both are ongoing."

Early Christmas present: Francesca Caine, chairwoman of the Hadley Wood Rail User group, hands over the petition to Andrew Sidgwick, from Govia Thameslink Railway

Stafford stays as Tories' dismissal motion is defeated

'I'm convinced he is contrite,' says Labour leader

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A MOTION to sack a cabinet member after he used "an extremely abusive" word was defeated as councillors were urged to adhere to high standards.

The Conservative group's call for the dismissal of Edmonton Green Labour councillor Andrew Stafford was not carried at the end of the hour-long extraordinary general meeting at Enfield Civic Centre on Monday.

The meeting was called after Mr Stafford, the cabinet member for finance, was heard responding to a speech by Alessandro Georgiou, a Conservative ward councillor for Southgate Green, during a debate on the government's Trade Union Bill, with an offensive four-letter word.

The Tory group walked out of the meeting on November 11, which was filmed, in protest.

Subsequently, five of them, including Mr Georgiou, signed a document calling for an emergency meeting.

Conservative group leader Terry Neville said that Mr Stafford's use of "an extremely abusive epithet" had "not only brought disgrace upon himself, but also on the Enfield Labour group and the council".

He said if the comment had been made in the workplace "immediate disciplinary action" would have been expected.

He said: "It is in fact behaviour and language far more suited to the public bars of low-lifer pubs."

Mr Stafford told the council: "I have provided a written apology for my behaviour at the last council meeting to everyone in this chamber on more than one occasion."

He left the chamber at the civic centre, in Silver Street, Enfield, before the debate got under way. Council leader Doug Taylor said: "I am absolutely convinced that he is contrite."

He said the Labour group had disciplined Mr Stafford, adding: "In this case I think the penalty of our actions is enough."

However, Mr Georgiou said Mr Stafford should resign "to give dignity back to the council".

He said he had felt "what he said was personal" although Mr Stafford had said it was not directed at him.

Turkey Street ward councillor Katherine Chibah (Labour) said that as disciplinary action had been taken, "I think this is a fairly straightforward situation that we all need to move on from."

The Conservative motion to dismiss Mr Stafford from his cabinet post was defeated, with 19 votes in favour and 32 against.

Contrite: Finance chief Andrew Stafford

Taking it personally: Alessandro Georgiou

Young people with mental health issues 'need more support'

MORE needs to be done to improve the support available to young people in the borough with mental health issues.

That's the finding of a report by the health and social care watchdog Healthwatch Enfield.

It questioned young people about their experiences. They said that key adults such as parents, carers, teachers or youth workers had little understanding of the issue and that they were reluctant to speak about mental health problems at home for fear of causing upset of worry.

The report calls for further guidance and training to be provided to enable adults to challenge the stigma and to be able to identify mental health needs among young people earlier.

It also recommends additional resources and funding should be made be available to enable staff who work with young people to provide guidance and signposting to services as well as employing counsellors in youth venues.

It says in general young people who had gained access to mental health services reported the quality of services to be good.

However, it found that these services had long waiting times for and between appointments, creating additional stress for young people.

Healthwatch Enfield chief executive Lorna Reith said: "Our findings paint a mixed picture."

"Services are often highly regarded, but young people lack information about them and waiting times can be too long. It is also really important that we all challenge the stigma and negative attitudes around mental health."

MP's referendum on cycling dismissed as a PR exercise

'Sham':
Enfield
Southgate
MP David
Burrowes is under attack over his cycling referendum

By Lucy Purdy

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

AN Enfield MP's referendum on the controversial Cycle Enfield scheme has been slammed as a "PR stunt".

Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes is sending 17,000 households in his constituency Free-post postcards asking: "Do you support the overall proposals for the A105 cycle lanes scheme?" Tickbox response options are: "yes", "no", "partially" and "don't know".

Mr Burrowes said the mail-out is designed to elicit his constituents' views "in a manner that has not happened with the council's consultation", in reference to Enfield Council's official consultation on the Palmers Green segment of the plan, which concluded in November.

This found that 60 per cent of the 1,646 respondents supported the scheme, while 40 per cent opposed proposals for bike lanes along Green Lanes, from Palmers Green to Enfield Town.

Father-of-two Andrew Larssen, who lives in Cranford Avenue, Palmers Green, said: "Mr Burrowes has been against the scheme from the start, despite the consultation being one of the most completed in Enfield's history. It's called a referendum, but it isn't. This is simply a PR stunt.

"I understand he is acting on people's concerns, but it's time for Mr Burrowes to provide some political leadership rather than simply responding to what is quite a small proportion of the community."

Daniel Anderson, the council's cabinet member for environment, called it a "sham referendum".

"It doesn't fulfil any criteria of a referendum and will have absolutely no bearing on Cycle Enfield," he said. "We have had more than 1,600 respondents to the formal consultation and know exactly what people's concerns are."

"These are being analysed and considered carefully. The proposal had to have cross-party support to be approved in the first place, so now they are back-tracking. This is political opportunism, pure and simple."

Mr Burrowes said: "This is a very significant infrastructure change and I want to know my constituents' views on it."

He said some people had received no direct communication about the scheme and had struggled with a "confusing" online consultation feedback system.

£50million savings to be made by 2019/20

Government cuts and an increase in demand for Council services from a growing population means that difficult decisions will have to be made about the future of many Council services. This is in addition to £118million savings made since 2010 – efficiencies alone are no longer enough.

Life sentences: Charles Tamale and Deo Tamale

Manslaughter: Ata Hansen

Three are jailed over knife killing

Twin brothers 'have shown no understanding'

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

THE mother of "gentle" father-of-one Khiry Ford, who was murdered as he tried to intervene as four men were robbed at his cousin's party, said his killers were "mindless imbeciles" after they were told they would serve a life sentence of at least 22 years in prison.

Joanne Duncan said the actions of 19-year-old twins Charles and Deo Tamale, who attacked her son in Haselbury Road, Edmonton, in November 2014, had devastated her family and deprived his four-year-old son of a loving father.

Khiry's sister, Naomi Ford, said they were "evil little boys" and her brother had been a victim of gang-related violence.

The Tamale brothers were members of the Edmonton gang Dem Africans.

It emerged that Charles Tamale had previous convictions for possession of a friction lock baton, robbery and theft while Deo Tamale had been reprimanded for a public order offence.

Passing sentence at the Old Bailey, Judge Wendy Joseph said neighbours looking out of their windows had seen Khiry attacked with a knife and his "dreadful" injuries gave a picture of what happened.

She said the 23-year-old suffered "three distinct and dreadful wounds to the heart" with such force that they had penetrated the bone of the sternum, as well as 12 other wounds.

In her impact statement, Mrs Duncan said the defendant's behaviour in court throughout the ten-week trial had been "hard to watch".

She said: "They behaved as if they were enjoying themselves while having a social gathering".

The Tamale brothers, of St Edmund's Road, Edmonton, who were 18 at the time of the stabbing, were found guilty by an Old Bailey jury last week of murdering Khiry.

The judge told a packed courtroom: "In the whole course of this trial I have heard no real word of understanding from the Tamale brothers, no scintilla of understanding what was done on that terrible night."

She said Khiry behaved in a proper way to try and get property returned, but he was pursued down the road with taunts and stabs.

She said both Deo and Charles Tamale should serve a minimum of 22 years, with a concurrent four years for robbery and concurrent three years for perverting the course of justice.

As they were taken down to the cells, one of the brothers said he was innocent and both put their fists to their chests and gestured to the packed public gallery.

'Gentle': Stabbing victim Khiry Ford

Ata Hansen, 18, of Church Street, Edmonton who was found guilty last week of Khiry's manslaughter, was sentenced to 11 years, with a concurrent three-year sentence for conspiracy to rob.

The judge said she had considered "the territorial aspect, the postcode aspect underlying the whole dreadful events of that night", and had listened to mitigation about all three including their youth.

Hansen was on bail and on curfew at the time and was convicted of possession of a knife the following month, the court heard.

The judge said she had no reason to think he was carrying a knife on the night Khiry died.

She said a moving letter from Hansen's father showed "a profound understanding of the suffering" of Khiry's family.

Mitigating for Deo Tamale, his lawyer Sally O'Neill said he had no intent to kill and pointed out his young age.

She said he had lost a friend to stabbing.

Charles Tamale's barrister Charles Sharrard said there was no evidence either brother committed the fatal blow. He said there was no pre-meditated attack.

Mitigating for Hansen, his lawyer Kieran Vaughan said he did not take a weapon to the scene, did not wield the blow which killed Ford and was just 17 at the time.

OPINION

Call for action: Darren Johnson

Pay-as-you-go driving would help to keep a lid on bus fares

THE government's plans to phase out the £700million revenue grant for Transport for London by 2019 will make higher fares even more likely in the next few years.

The cuts to government grants have already driven up bus fares under Boris Johnson by around a fifth in real terms, despite the efficiency savings he has made.

With cuts already made to Tube station staffing and backroom support, it will be hard to find further savings in a service which is trying to rapidly expand in order to cope with an average population growth of 100,000 a year.

A cut in government grant inevitably means higher fares unless we can raise revenue from other sources.

It's welcome that revenue from business rates is being devolved to City Hall and local councils. I'd like to see the same apply to property taxes, so the mayor could replace council tax and stamp duty with a land value tax.

This could recoup money from property owners who enjoy a huge windfall profit purely on the back of public sector investment in new Tube and rail lines.

The mayor could also introduce pay-as-you-go driving across the capital, which could raise money to hold down fares at the same time as tackling congestion and pollution.

Look closer to see problems this scheme will bring

OUCH! I appear to have touched a raw nerve with Councillor Derek Levy. ("We've been listening to views of the community", Opinion, December 2).

In fact, Mr Levy's comments only serve to emphasise the very point I was making. While Councillor Daniel Anderson has already declared he "will not rule out" moving the cycle route currently proposed for Southbury Road while the Southbury Road consultation is still live, for other areas he has stated that the cycle routes are fixed and only the minor details will be negotiated "once the consultation has ended".

Indeed, he has now criticised Councillor Terry Neville for saying the Conservative group will only support a scheme that is "away from the high street with minimal inconvenience" – in other words, precisely the same issue as Mr Anderson is willing to consider for Southbury Road. Is it a case of all consultations are equal, but some are equal than others?

As for the suggestion I should confine my comments "to my own backyard", Mr Levy would be advised to look beyond the confines of his own patch.

It is only through persistent enquiries made by myself to the Cycle Enfield manager that it emerged that delivery vehicles wishing to use the loading bays on the south side of the town in option two will only be able to approach from Southbury Road.

There will be no right turn from Silver Street, no left turn from London Road, and no crossing the central cycle track along Church Street. That means forcing even more vehicles to travel down Southbury Road in future.

So my advice to Mr Levy is to look beyond his backyard, so that he can acquaint himself with the additional problems the Enfield Town scheme will bring for his constituents.

We can walk our way to better health

RELATIVELY recently it was common to smoke in restaurants, on the Tube, on aeroplanes and indeed pretty much everywhere outside of an operating theatre.

Then the cost, in finance and health, not only to the smoker but also to wider society was highlighted.

Personal habits changed, quickly, legally and significantly.

It is still the largest public health issue – for now – but remains actively discouraged as successive governments bear down on it.

Health issues such as obesity, inactivity-linked diseases, respiratory illness and mental health – the latter often due to isolation – are significant and in at least the case of obesity/Type 2 diabetes are growing significantly, capturing a large and increasing portion of our total NHS budget.

What if someone were to suggest those shorter journeys of say one mile, well within the capabilities of the majority, so often taken by car out of simple habit, were walked instead?

Not only would close to one in every three car journeys be taken off our streets with obvious benefits to road congestion, air pollution and the noise levels communities bear, but also those undertaking the active travel would see a positive benefit to their own health, while everyone else would benefit from freed-up NHS resources.

There would be no issues of parking, it would be free to the user and their own health and also that of the wider community would benefit.

As an idea it seems to have merit and no obvious downside. I would commend it to all political parties to consider and promote.

Pleased to get muddy for an excellent cause

I'D like to respond to the article headlined "Winter wonderland – or a muddy disaster?" (Advertiser, December 2).

Apparently, Mike Rye believes our event "ruined the manicured lawns and landscaped gardens near the war memorial".

Does he not know it is winter? It's the time of year that generally you do see a bit of mud as it has been raining heavily.

I took part in a couple of cross-country runs recently – the first in Cheshunt Park in October and the second in the middle of November.

The run in November saw Trent Park full of mud, with all the runners, nearly 500 of them, slipping and sliding.

Do you think that mud will be there in spring or summer? In summer it will be back to green grass and buttercups – a beautiful scene. Do you know what it's called? It's called nature.

Myself and a few others also ran in Trent Park in June to raise money for the Nightingale Cancer Support Centre. We ran the Triffic Trail and I got a lovely letter from the charity thanking me, even though I'd only raised a small amount.

I hope to run several half-marathons and ten-mile event next year after I've had my second child.

I will definitely be running some of those to raise money for the Nightingale and every mile I will be thinking of all the people it helps and how hard it works. And, yes, I hope it's really, really muddy.

I wonder what Mr Rye is doing to help the charity instead of moaning and focusing on the negative.

I'd like to see him run the Triffic Trail next June, at the starting line with his running shorts and T-shirt to raise money for such a fantastic charity.

A shockingly dumb decision

I WAS shocked to see the new trees on the central reservation between Bury Street and Lincoln Road were leaning where they had been planted above the railway bridge on the A10. I investigated the cause and discovered that the Highways Agency had planted them in 14 inches of soil above solid concrete.

There is dumb and there is dumber. All these trees are a serious danger to motorists and could cause a fatal injury. They have to be removed immediately and put in deeper soil.

Major Congestion for Enfield Town and Surrounding Roads

Local Business and residents have been raising their concerns with Enfield Council and engaging members of the public to support their campaign to oppose the current Cycle Enfield plans for Enfield Town.

“We are not against the idea of a cycle route for Enfield Town, in fact many of the business were in full support of Option 4 from the initial consultation. However this has been removed from the current consultation and the options that Enfield Council and Cycle Enfield are now proposing we believe will be damaging for business and residents alike” said Erdel Mehmet, Chair of the Enfield Town Business Association.

“In both the options now being proposed traffic is taken from Church Street a two lane road to be fed into a single carriage way. The council’s own information states some 10,500 vehicles a day use Church Street.

How will Cecil Road cope with the additional traffic? Returning Cecil Road to two-way working will cause major congestion – both on Cecil Road and in the surrounding roads around Enfield Town that are used to gain access to and through Enfield Town center. Experiencing this traffic mayhem motorists are likely to just abandon Enfield Town for areas where they do not get snarled up in traffic.

Linda Miller Chair of the Enfield Town Residents Association added “Delivery vehicles have to manoeuvre across the full width of Cecil Road to access the goods yards. Imagine what it’s going to be like with all the traffic from Windmill Hill being held up along the primarily residential section of the road!”

“And the news is worse for bus routes. At the bus stop on London Road, buses will stop on the main carriageway (holding up all the traffic behind it) and you will have to cross the cycle lane using a ‘bus boarder’ (a raised section of the cycle lane) to get on or off the bus.”

“Local residents are very concerned that the increase in traffic congestion that both options will create will significantly increase pollution levels and affect the health of residents in Cecil Road and the surrounding roads.”

The Consultation for Enfield Town

The consultation is very easy to fill in. There are three sections

In the first section ‘About you’ you will first be asked to answer some fairly basic questions about yourself. It only takes about 30 seconds. You will be asked for your email address but you do not need to give this if you don’t want to. You CANNOT be identified from the information you give.

After this you will be asked to go to a section called ‘Enfield Town Options’. This asks you for your views on Option 1 and Option 2.

What should you say in your response?

If you, like us, do not think these proposals will be good for Enfield Town you should click on both the ‘no I do not support option 1’ AND ‘no I do not support option 2’ buttons.

Note that if you click on the ‘I partially support’ option then Enfield will count this as a ‘yes’ – this is what Enfield has just done with the responses to the A105 consultation

After that you are asked to say why you have given those responses above. You don’t have to fill this in but it would be helpful if you could.

AFTER THESE TWO SECTIONS YOU WILL BE ASKED FOR YOUR VIEWS ON THE CONSULTATION PROCESS ITSELF

The sections ‘about you’ and ‘Enfield Town options’ are the only two sections you have to fill out – the third section (on the consultation process) is optional.

It would however be helpful if you could give your views on the consultation process, especially if, like us, you think the council has not made it easy for people to understand what the changes will mean.

This section consists of three questions followed by a box where you can make comments.

Again, ideally you should give your own views in this box.

It’s About More than Cycling.....

Enfield Council say how the Cycle Enfield Scheme will be transformational for Enfield Town.

However many people do not believe the plans will bring benefits to pedestrians in Church Street that the Council claim.

For a start there will be no safe places to cross where pedestrians have right of way. The plans include “Wide implied crossings” – there will be no traffic lights, signs or road markings and traffic will have right of way over the pedestrians.

The proposals aren’t great for bus passengers either. Currently when a bus is stationary at one of the three stops on Church Street the buses behind it can overtake. Under the proposals, buses would be held in a single, physically segregated, lane, meaning that when one stops, they all stop. There are 50 buses an hour at peak times. How much longer will these journeys become under this insane scheme?

And it gets worse for pedestrians. The pavement on the market side of Church Street will be narrowed and Enfield Council proposes reducing the number of bus stops from three down to two. We already have extreme overcrowding around the bus stops at peak periods. Cutting the number of bus stops, together with narrowing the pavement will make the overcrowding even worse – be prepared to climb over each other to get along Church Street in future.

It may not just be about cycles, Option 4 offered a solution that introduced cycle lanes to Enfield Town whilst still keeping the town center accessible for all. We would encourage the council to bring back Option 4.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

The right stage for coffee

ANNE MARIE SANDERSON

Café couple: Aykut and Ingrid Berg Hilmi are planning to expand their business with open mic and poetry nights and live music

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A HUSBAND and wife team who have spent most of their working lives immersed in the bright lights and glamour of all things theatrical are bringing a slice of the West End to a quiet corner of Palmers Green.

Actor Aykut Hilmi and his dancer wife Ingrid Berg Hilmi are launching their own creative space open to everyone with imagination and a need for an intense caffeine hit.

Starfish Loves Coffee opened on the corner of Lakeside Road and Aldermans Hill four weeks ago and from January the couple will be launching open mic nights, poetry nights and live music in a bid to bring out the talent they believe is bubbling just under the surface throughout the borough.

Aykut, who is part of the Royal National Theatre company and has starred in a string of West End hits, grew up in Palmers Green and after a stint living in Angel, Islington, returned with Ingrid in 2006.

"There is so much talent here, there are artists and designers living in this street," he says as he gestures towards Lakeside Road.

Pointing to the portraits lining the café's dedicated gallery wall, he says: "These are works by the artist Patrick Morgan and these paintings were done in collaboration with Tom Ford. It is a free gallery wall. Where else can you find that?"

With coffee brewed from British-roasted beans and prosecco on tap, Aykut and Ingrid believe that their "art-house" café will provide something for everyone in the community.

But Aykut admits that some in the area were reluctant to welcome a late-licence and alcohol-serving bistro into their midst.

In fact, the Friends of the Lakes Estate conservation area, which stretches from Conway Road in the west to Old Park Road in the east, were vocal in their opposition to Aykut's application for an alcohol licence and for permission from the council to have tables on the street corner and a licence for live music.

But the actor believes part of their opposition stemmed from their fear of the new.

"The conservation group had gone round saying this was going to be a brawl house, a nightclub, that people were going to be fighting in the streets, but we have explained to the neighbours exactly what we are – and I believe the majority of people who live here want new, exciting and fun places where they can socialise."

Aykut nods to the tables on the pavement and adds: "The only way we can survive as an art-house café is to have an alcohol licence – otherwise to survive people would need to drink 400 cups of coffee a day. That's one thing in the West End, but in Palmers Green that's just not going to happen."

The café is open at the moment from 9am to 5pm, but come the new year the couple plan to start getting creative with their space and will be open to ideas from the community about how to go about getting the most out of the venue.

Anyone with ideas and queries is encouraged to get in touch with the couple on Twitter @starfish_loves and on Facebook through their Starfish Loves Coffee page.

X marks the spot

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

YOUNG voters have elected the people who will represent them in the Enfield Youth Parliament for the next two years.

The ballot took place at 17 schools and colleges and three youth clubs across the borough over a three-week period. Across the borough voters picked 19 youth parliament members, and 14 deputies, from a field of 56 candidates. There was a 66 per cent turnout.

The departing youth parliament leader Kwame Osei Owusu said: "Taking part in the Enfield Youth Parliament has given me confidence to express the views and ideas of young people. What you put into the parliament is what you get out of it. Although it is hard work, it is really worthwhile."

The youth parliament represents 80,000 young people in Enfield and sends representatives to the national UK Youth Parliament.

Ayfer Orhan, Enfield Council's cabinet member for education, children's services and protection, who acted as returning officer for the election, said: "We want to hear from our young people and the youth parliament gives them a platform. It is an important contributor to council decisions affecting Enfield's youth – they are our future."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Extra weekday evening and Saturday urgent GP appointments until 31 March 2016

If you are registered with a GP practice in Enfield, you can now benefit from an appointment with a GP weekday evenings and on Saturdays at one of two GP access hubs.

Booking is easy:

- Contact your GP practice in the usual way, and ask for a weekday evening or Saturday appointment at one of the GP access hubs, OR
- Call 111 (NHS 111 is available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year and calls are free from landlines and mobiles), OR
- Call direct on 020 8887 8343 (available 11am – 5.30pm Monday to Saturday)

Extra urgent GP appointments will help improve access to GPs and to reduce pressure on busy A&E departments this winter.

Opening times:

Mondays to Fridays: 4pm - 8pm
Saturdays: 9am - 5.30pm

GP access hub locations:

Evergreen Primary Care Centre
1 Smythe Close,
Edmonton N9 0TW

Green Lanes Surgery

808 Green Lanes,
Winchmore Hill, N21 2SA

Using this service will not affect your registration at your own practice.

Ask your pharmacist

Pharmacists can give you expert advice on a wide range of long-term conditions and common illnesses such as coughs, colds and stomach upsets. You don't need an appointment and many pharmacies have private consultation areas, so they are a good first port of call. Your pharmacist will say if you need further medical attention.

Self-care

Most common winter ailments, such as a cold, sore throat, cough, sinusitis or painful middle ear infection (earache), should not be treated with antibiotics as a first choice. Your pharmacist can advise you on which medicines you should have in your cabinet, to help get you and your family through the winter season.

Remember:
A&E is for life threatening illnesses and injuries only. Call NHS 111 if you need medical help fast but it's not a 999 emergency.

School turns over a new leaf

By Lucy Purdy

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

A PRIMARY school whose library was destroyed in an arson attack celebrated the official opening of a new facility last week.

Staff at Houndsfield Primary School, in Edmonton, hope the new library and books will help instil a love of reading among pupils.

Although the school, in Ripon Road, was rebuilt following the arson attack in 2009, this is the first time a purpose-built library has been reinstated.

Many of the school's pupils do not have English as their native tongue and come from a variety of backgrounds including Somali, Albanian and Turkish.

Reading is a chance to speed up their command of English, says Keely Fisher, school librarian and manager of the new learning hub.

"Many of our children are not growing up in home environments in which they're surrounded by books," she explained. "We welcome 90 new children each year and I would say at least half of them don't have English as a first language."

"So we're very keen to instil a love of books and reading."

"We haven't gone down the route of bringing in the likes of Kindles because we want to connect children with the written page."

The school's budget meant that staff decided against signing up to Enfield Council's library service for schools, which costs money, and applied instead for grants to be able to afford new books.

Football magazines have also been introduced to encourage less enthusiastic readers into getting started.

Children have been offered sneak previews of Tree of knowledge: Houndsfield Primary School pupils in their new library the learning hub – decked out in the theme of an English woodland – and their enthusiasm has been "staggering", says the librarian.

"Children really love coming here, even those who are usually reluctant readers," she added.

"We didn't have a library for a long time, but now we've seized the baton and run with it."

And the new facility has even created "job" openings. Pupils have been busily preparing applications for roles as library assistants and two children will be selected to help out at the library from each class.

Alphega Pharmacy is piloting a mole screening service that could detect skin cancer

Due to the increase in the number of cases of skin cancer (malignant melanoma) and the lack of awareness of both the risks of skin cancer or how to detect suspicious moles, Alphega Pharmacy is now offering a mole screening service within its pharmacies. This will help people become more informed of the dangers of skin cancer and provide increased and easy access to mole screening.

Who is most at risk?

People with fair skin who burn easily, have lots of moles or freckles, have red or fair hair, were frequently sunburnt as a child or have a family history of skin cancer are most at risk. However, everyone should check their moles regularly for changes in appearance.

What to look for?

The appearance of a new mole or a change to an existing mole. Areas of the body exposed to the sun are most at risk, with the most common places for a melanoma to develop being on a woman's lower leg and on the back for men

The mole screening service – what's involved?

If you are concerned about any of your moles, the mole screening service is a very quick and painless way to check your moles for peace of mind. Any moles causing concern are scanned using the latest imaging technology in the pharmacy, capturing the depth and shape of the mole. The images are then sent for analysis by a private dermatologist and you'll receive the results within two weeks.

Scanning costs £45 for the first two moles and £15 per extra mole - significantly cheaper than visiting a private dermatologist.

Why is Alphega Pharmacy offering a mole screening service in its pharmacies?

At Alphega Pharmacy, we recognise that we all lead busy lives and are often time short. So we are offering the mole screening service within the pharmacy to enable you to check out any concerning mole as quickly as possible.

For your convenience, many Alphega pharmacies are open in the evenings and at weekends. You can also pick up a handy mole guide at your local Alphega pharmacy to help you regularly check your own moles for any changes.

The mole screening service is being offered in conjunction with ScreenCancer UK and is available in 25 Alphega pharmacies around the UK.

Want to find out more?

Visit www.alphega-pharmacy.co.uk for a full list of pharmacies offering the mole screening service and for more information about this service.

HUNDREDS of young people spent last week vaulting, leaping and somersaulting through the borough's leisure centres.

More than 400 children from 40 schools took part in the annual gymnastics and trampolining festival.

The pupils, from primary and secondary schools across Enfield, battled it out at the annual competition that takes place over four days in an attempt to win a place at the London Youth Games at Crystal Palace in June next year.

Primary schools coached their protégés for weeks to perfect their flexibility and strength for vaulting and floor routines secondary school students bounced their way through trampolining exhibitions in their bid to win a spot at the youth games.

The council chief with responsibility for children and young people Ayfer Orhan said: "We have seen some terrific routines from all those taking part.

"It is amazing just how polished the sequences from all age groups can be.

"It is a credit to the performers and their teachers that they are able to achieve such high standards."

Experts from the borough's gymnastics clubs judged the competitors to make sure that standards remain high.

BORIS Johnson poured molten silver heated to 1,200 degrees Celsius into a mould when he opened a new £9million laboratory at sustainable technology expert Johnson Matthey's plant in Enfield.

The Mayor of London cut a ribbon to declare the lab in Jeffreys Road, Brimsdown, officially open and learnt more about its work recycling precious metals for reuse.

Mr Johnson visited the furnace room and donned a protective suit, gauntlets and face visor to have a go at pouring the molten precious metal.

He was presented with a silver bar as he left the building and joked that he thought this would be worth a lot of money, but had been assured it was not.

Recycled metal from the Enfield plant is used in a range of items, including catalytic converters to reduce harmful emissions from vehicles.

A third of all cars worldwide are fitted with catalytic converters made by the company.

The new lab uses sophisticated sampling and analysis techniques to establish the precise quantities of precious metals contained in customer's materials.

Recycled precious metals are also used in glassmaking and chemical and drug manufacturing processes.

Mr Johnson visited the chemical plant four years ago when he met 12 engineering apprentices. Eleven of them were on hand to greet the mayor again and he asked how their careers with Johnson Matthey were progressing.

The company's chief executive Robert MacLeod said: "We are very proud of our position as leader in recycling precious metals and this laboratory enhances our capabilities, ensuring we are well placed to meet our customers' needs."

The site employs 350 people and an apprenticeship scheme started there in 2010.

Mr MacLeod added: "Creating an apprenticeship programme for young people helps ensure that the company has the right skill sets and contributes to a sustainable workforce."

Mr Johnson said: "Johnson Matthey is a renowned global leader when it comes to recycling precious metals and it is fantastic to see the new facility and the great work carried out here."

Restaurant which employed illegal workers loses licence

A TANDOORI restaurant where illegal workers were discovered following three separate raids by immigration officials has had its licence revoked by Enfield Council.

Tandoori Nights, in Station Parade, Cockfosters, had its alcohol and late-night refreshment premises licence cancelled by the licensing sub-committee – the first time an immigration issue has led the council to review a premises licence.

It followed the latest raid in June, in which it was discovered that a member of staff released on licence from detention while his immigration status was being examined had breached his conditions.

Along with the revocation of the licence, the business faces fines of £15,000 for immigration offences.

The premises have a significant history in relation to immigration offences stretching back as far as 2008 and five arrests were made in September 2014.

In October 2014, licensing enforcement officers and immigration officers visited the premises and four members of staff from the kitchen fled out of the back door before being caught.

The sub-committee concluded that as the law had been broken continually at the restaurant in relation to immigration over the past six years the licence should be revoked.

The council's cabinet member for environment, Daniel Anderson, said: "Illegal working defrauds the taxpayer, undercuts honest businesses and cheats legitimate job seekers out of employment opportunities."

"This particular establishment, despite being warned time and again, employed illegal workers who had no right to work in the UK and as such I am pleased to see that this has been reflected in the huge fine and revocation of the licence."

Christmas Term

KEBLE PREP

At Keble Prep every individual counts

We have been busy building up to the end of the Autumn Term here at Keble Prep. We have enjoyed all the many events which have taken place so far; Year 5 and 6 boys were treated to a trip to Northampton and Carding Mill Valley, Year 1 had a visit from the 'Stone Age Man', learned how to make a fire, experienced some of the ways of life in those times. Later in the term Year 4 were taken back to Roman times for the day! Last weekend the 'Keble Parents' Social Association organised a wonderful Christmas Fayre, and Year 1 parents enjoyed their boys' production of "The Grumpy Sheep".

Next week Reception take to the stage with their production of "The Wiggly Nativity" and we host one of our special events, Readings and Carols for Christmas – a fitting end to a busy term for the boys and staff.

For those of us who are not familiar with Keble Prep, and what we have to offer, why not come along to our Spring Term Open Morning on Wednesday 2nd March 2016. We are opening the school from 8.45am to 11.30am and you are all very welcome!

Vita et Pax Preparatory School appoints a new Headmistress

Vita et Pax School is pleased to announce the appointment of Mrs Pauline Gibbons (pictured right) as Headmistress with effect from the Trinity Term 2016.

Mrs Gibbons joins Vita et Pax with a variety of experience in education, most recently at the prestigious Queen's College Preparatory School in Westminster.

Prior to entering the teaching profession, Mrs Gibbons worked successfully in finance, before taking a career break to have her family.

A practising Roman Catholic, Mrs Gibbons is well-equipped to maintain the ethos of this highly-regarded school. She comments, "I am delighted to become part of the Vita et Pax community. Over the years, I have watched the School grow and flourish; I am very excited to have been given the opportunity to take it forward to the next chapter".

"After a rigorous process, the appointment was made from a strong field", said Ms Clear-Doughty, Chair of the Governing Body. "Mrs Gibbons' background makes her well-placed to take the School into the next phase of its development."

Mrs Gibbons succeeds Mrs Margaret O'Connor, who has successfully led the School for the last 19 years.

Mrs O'Connor commented, "I am delighted to be handing the reins to Mrs Gibbons, who I have no doubt will build on the School's secure foundation".

We very much look forward to welcoming Mrs Gibbons into the Vita et Pax community with the assurance that she will continue to lead the School in providing an outstanding education.

For further information or to arrange a visit to Vita et Pax Preparatory School please contact the School Office on 020 8449 8336.

Christmas Term

Merry Christmas from St Mary's CE High School

Lieutenant Ellis Way, Chesham, Hertfordshire, EN7 5FB (just off M25 at M25)

At St Mary's CE High School the arrival of Christmas always marks the end of a busy term and 2015 is no exception!

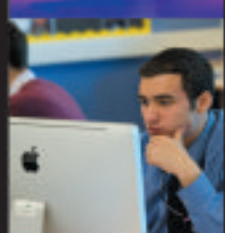

It is clear to see that St Mary's students have been involved in lots of activities to support their learning and personal development throughout the year. However, they have not forgotten that others are not always as fortunate as they are and the work done for charity this year is impressive with over £2,044 being raised during 2014/15 academic year for charity. In October, students raised £1,258 in support of Children in Need. As part of our Harvest Festival Celebrations, students and their families donated £3000 of food to the Broxbourne Food Bank and earlier this week, 120 Christmas gift boxes were presented to Crisis at Christmas. In all cases, students participated in all stages of the charity work ensuring that they contributed both time and practical gifts to their chosen causes.

On the last Tuesday of term, the St Mary's community will gather in St Mary the Virgin Church for our annual Christmas Service when we are joined by students, parents/carers, governors and members of our partner primary schools. The Church is beautifully lit and the service is led by our Phoenix Performing Arts Academy students and the staff choir. For the first time this year, students who play instruments will accompany our Director of Music and the Choir in Church. This is a fabulous celebration of Christmas with singing, readings, drama and to end, hot chocolate and mince pies.

The term ends with our fabulous Christmas lunch, cooked by our in-house Catering Team to whom it is a long held tradition for the students to sing 'We Wish You a Merry Christmas'. Christmas is a very happy time at St Mary's, providing an opportunity for us all to share together in the joy of the festive season whilst taking the opportunity to share our celebrations with others in our community.

Happy Christmas and a peaceful New Year to everyone from us all at St Mary's CE High School!

CHRISTMAS AT GRANGE PARK PREP SCHOOL

At GPPS we are very proud of our strong Christmas traditions.

This week our Key Stage 1 and Reception girls will delight us with a very traditional Nativity. We are looking forward to an extravaganza of singing, dancing and acting as the Nativity is always a highlight for parents, staff and the older girls.

Girls from Years 5 & 6 will be visiting Reardon Court Daycare and Residential Centre in Winchmore Hill. Our girls have been singing there for many years, giving the residents a flavour of the delights of our Carol Service.

The PTA are working tirelessly to create a festive atmosphere for the Christmas Bazaar on Saturday 12 December from 12 to 3pm. Santa will put in an appearance and there will be a chance to make Christmas decorations and buy stocking fillers.

We will round off the Christmas festivities with our annual Carol Service in the Church in the Orchard. The girls will retell the Christmas Story through poetry and music with the backing of the String Group and Wind Band.

We are also delighted to announce that our nursery children are enjoying their first Christmas at GPPS and from January 2016 we will have extended hours and the nursery will be open from 8-6pm.

GPPS takes great pride in providing a secure, happy and lively environment, focusing on high quality teaching in small classes as a priority, with specialist teachers for PE, Dance and Drama, French, Music. Year 5 and 6 benefit greatly from lessons delivered by specialist English, Maths, ICT and Humanities teachers. Our broad curriculum is delivered by an enthusiastic and dedicated team which encourages enthusiasm for learning. Our focus is on ensuring all girls leave GPPS as independent learners with confidence, self belief and an abiding respect for others. We aim to instil a lifelong love of learning and a strong grounding for future success.

Rhyme pays as George searches for answers

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A FORMER pupil of a Barnet school will be appearing at the National Theatre this weekend as part of a new initiative showcasing critically acclaimed musicians and performers.

George Mpanga, also known as George the Poet, is performing on Saturday as part of a series of music gigs in a temporary space attached to the theatre on the Southbank.

The poet and spoken word performer started off as a grime and rap artist while he was at Queen Elizabeth Boys' School – and while studying politics, psychology and sociology at King's College, Cambridge, his work developed into verse and poetry, which, he has said, enabled him to focus on social commentary about socio economic and political issues facing young people.

After winning a social enterprise competition run by Barclays and Channel 4 he used his £16,000 prize to fund a series of poetry workshops for secondary school pupils who might not otherwise have engaged with poetry.

His latest published book of verse, The Search Party, deals with issues of social cohesion and was produced in tandem with The Search Party Project, a five-week enterprise and employability scheme for young people aged between 16 and 19.

On top of a MOBO nomination for best newcomer he was shortlisted for the Critics' Choice category of the 2015 Brit awards and came fifth in the BBC's Sound of 2015 poll.

The line-up for the performances, which continue through December and into January, include folk and hip hop musicians as well as other spoken word artists.

Pitts of despair

BY THE SEA (15, 122 mins)

ACHINGLY cool style casts a disdainful glance at substance in Angelina Jolie Pitt's languorous examination of marital discord set in a 1970s' resort in the south of France.

The vicarious thrill of observing one of the world's most famous celebrity couples blur reality for their art as a husband and wife in turmoil quickly evaporates when it becomes evident that the script and a robust plot are the least of the film's trifling concerns.

An unintentionally hilarious opening line of dialogue – "I smell fish!" – delivered with utmost seriousness by the director, writer and leading lady sets the tone for By The Sea.

The period detail is impeccable, from the sleek convertible that delivers the couple to their sun-baked Mediterranean idyll, to the pristine designer luggage that accommodates the numerous costume changes that herald each overwrought scene.

Tears flow freely, sending dark rivulets of non-waterproof mascara down Jolie Pitt's cheeks as she shields her eyes from the midday sun behind large Yves Saint Laurent glasses.

When Pitt's long-suffering spouse quietly informs one of the French locals: "She's not so easy to love", we share his pain. Every frame is speckled with woe.

Melancholy couple: Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt in By The Sea

With a running time of just over two hours, that's a lot of misery and self-loathing.

By The Sea opens with New York author Roland (Brad Pitt) and his wife Vanessa (Angelina Jolie Pitt) arriving at a hotel, where he hopes the sea air will unclog his writer's block. Tension between the couple is palpable.

"Have a nice day," Roland tells his wife as he heads down to the hotel bar to trade stories with bartender Michel (Niels Arestrup).

"I won't," laments Vanessa.

"I know," sighs her husband. The air of melancholy momentarily lifts when newlyweds Francois (Melvil Poupaud) and Lea (Melanie Laurent) check in to an adjacent suite and Vanessa discovers a hole in the wall that allows her to spy on the new arrivals, who hop into bed with frenzied regularity.

At first, this voyeurism seems to stoke the smoldering embers of Vanessa and Roland's dormant desire.

However, her fixation on the couple next door errs dangerously close to a voracious and all-consuming obsession.

"I don't think I like this game any more," Roland warns his self-destructive wife.

By The Sea is undone by a plodding, impotent script that struggles to verbalise the central couple's turmoil. "I like belonging to something, someone," remarks Vanessa in one of the film's more lucid moments.

Protracted scenes of Jolie Pitt lounging morosely on her balcony pass without incident, casting us as the increasingly impatient voyeurs of a woman on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

When the big reveal finally comes and we learn of the reason for the wife's suffering, it's an anguished cry in the dark that fails to curry our sympathy.

Released: December 11
RATING: 4/10

In print...or ONLINE

In this rapidly moving technological age people are finding new ways to advertise, especially online via the internet. But contrary to what online sites are saying and common assumptions, print advertising is not dead. There are still benefits and disadvantages to both methods and the best way to succeed is to find a vehicle that covers both bases - and that's where we come in!

The Benefits of print advertising:

1. Print adverts last longer and will be seen often.
2. They will be seen by a large number of people and have the ability to hit a specific audience.
3. There is a more creative potential with print advertising.
4. There is a positive perception of newspaper advertising - it will encourage people to think the client is serious.

The Benefits of online advertising:

1. The advert content can be easily updated.
2. It's online 24/7, 12 months a year, all round the world.
3. A massive audience, with all ages now online.
4. Very quick response - you can be receiving candidates hours after posting your advert.

We'll give you the best of both worlds - every week, all week!

SPURS LOOKING FOR A STRIKER

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino has admitted that he is keen for Tottenham Hotspur to sign another striker during the January transfer window.

Despite having brought attackers Heung-Min Son and Clinton N'Jie to White Hart Lane over the summer, the duo seem to be more comfortable playing behind the main front man – leaving Harry Kane as the only out-and-out striker at the club.

And Pochettino admits that he would like to sign another centre forward to ease some of the burden on the England international.

“I’m very happy with my squad, but always in every position you can improve,” he said. “We have offensive players who can play like Harry. There is Son or Nacer Chadli or Clinton – they can play like a striker.

“But maybe it’s true that we will try to sign a striker in January. I recognise they are not specifically strikers so maybe we will work to try and find such a player who we can add in the next transfer window or in the summer to try to help the team. It is important we find someone who is very specific.”

Meanwhile, Pochettino was left frustrated after Tottenham had to settle for yet another draw on Saturday as their Premier League match at West Bromwich Albion finished 1-1.

Spurs remain unbeaten in the league since the opening day of the season, but they have only won six matches and their total of eight draws is the most in the division.

“We had a tough team in front of us and tough conditions to deal with,” he said. “Every time we were in possession they had ten men behind the ball and that made it difficult for us. The conditions didn’t help either.

“But you know, sometimes in the season you have games like this and you can win or lose. I think it was a mature performance from the players.

“The effort was brilliant from the team but we are all disappointed because the feeling is that we dropped two points. We’re not happy, not upset, but in between.”

Dele Alli added to his burgeoning reputation by scoring Spurs’ goal on Saturday, and the young midfielder is determined to ensure that he keeps on progressing.

He said: “I’ve great people around me, family, the players and staff here. They’ve all helped me to settle in well and I’m sure they’ll look after me and make sure I don’t get carried away. I’ve still a lot to learn. I’m only 19 and looking to keep improving.

“West Brom made it difficult for us, they weren’t just going to let us walk in and take three points. I thought we played well and there were positives to take, but at the same time some negatives that we’ll work on and take into the next game.

“The fans were fantastic again and it’s a shame we couldn’t come away with three points. It’s important now that we pick ourselves up, train well and try to get the next three points.

“We’re in good form at the moment and back ourselves whoever we play.”

Hoping to strengthen: Tottenham head coach Mauricio Pochettino is looking to bring in another striker

Improving Borough ease past Great Woking

HARINGEY BOROUGH continued their improved form by claiming a 3-1 victory at home to Great Woking Rovers in Ryman League Division One North on Saturday.

Although Borough remain in the bottom three of the table, they are increasingly showing signs that they have the ability to pull away from the danger zone and they dominated this match for long spells.

Jorge Sambu opened the scoring for the hosts on 20 minutes and Dan Aristidou doubled their advantage from the spot five minutes before half-time.

Jacob Cleaver pulled one back for Great Woking two minutes later, but Borough were not to be denied and Rakim Richards set the seal on their victory by adding a third with 16 minutes remaining.

Meanwhile, Borough produced a battling display on Tuesday last week despite eventually suffering a 3-2 defeat at home to Harlow Town.

The visitors took an early lead when Mario Noto’s corner was nodded down by Ibrahima Sonko and Alex Read volleyed into the net from close range.

Jerome Martelli was thwarted by Harlow keeper David Hughes as the hosts looked to fight back and they grabbed an equaliser when Aristidou curled home a free-kick from the edge of the box.

However, the scores were level for less than a minutes as Harlow struck straight from the kick-off – Junior Dadson scoring at the second attempt after his initial shot had been parried by keeper Ashley Harris.

Harlow dominated the remainder of the first half and Noto grazed the bar with a 30-yard effort, but Borough were much-improved in the second period and Carl Griffiths should have done better when he put a free header high and wide.

And the hosts eventually grabbed a second equaliser in rather fortunate circumstances. Richards was thwarted by a fine save from Hughes, leading to a scramble which ended with a shot crashing against the underside of the bar before the ball rebounded into the net off the back of the luckless keeper.

Once again the scores were not level for long though as Harlow took the lead for a third time when Jared Small fed Alex Read, who delivered a cross which was drilled into the net by Noto.

Harris made a fine save to prevent Read from doubling the visitors’ advantage, but Borough were unable to mount another comeback as they ended up with nothing to show for their efforts.

Haringey Borough go to Soham Town Rangers on Saturday (3pm), before hosting Thamesmead Town on Tuesday (7.45pm).

Cuss hopes students will star

LONDON SKOLARS assistant coach Matt Cuss is confident that there are some players in the South East student rugby league squad who could make their mark with the Kingstone Press Championship One outfit.

Cuss forms part of the coaching staff – along with Skolars’ under-13 head coach Paul Quill – for the South East side who will take on their South West counterparts in Maidenhead over the weekend.

A 20-man squad – including Skolars’ versatile half-back Sam Druce – has been selected following trials involving almost 50 young hopefuls at Brunel University, and Cuss is backing the youngsters to shine.

He said: “The squad are looking forward to the fixture this weekend and we are confident that many of the boys can progress through the pathway and achieve England selection.

“Personally it’s been great for myself to be able to work with the boys over the past few weeks and keep an eye on the undoubted talent that we have at the student level of the game.

“I’ll certainly be providing feedback to Skolars’ head coach Jermaine Coleman on those players I believe have the potential to add something to our squad for 2016.”

The South East representative side provides a pathway for students to progress to an origin fixture where the best of the South will take on their counterparts from the North of England.

From this fixture the full England squad will be selected, who will then attempt to defend their Four Nations crown next year.
